

Going to see Book of Stars at Sandglass Theater- Social Story

I will drive to downtown Putney. After parking I will walk up Sandglass' dirt driveway, past a garden and up to a big red barn.

I will walk through the front door of the theater which is marked by a sign in the shape of a pig that says "Theater". I will see Leslie or Mackenzie at the box office, welcoming me to the theater.

I will have some time in the theater lobby, where there are many puppets to look at and use the bathroom if I need to. The bathroom is filled with books.

When it is time, I will walk down the ramp that leads to the theater.

Then I will enter the theater through a red velvet curtain. I will see other people coming to the show. The theater will have dim lights.

I will find a seat inside the theater. I will sit down on a chair or a bench.

There will be lots of other people sitting in chairs and benches waiting for the show to start. I will be part of the audience. I will wait for the show to start, just like everyone else in the audience. I am here to watch the performance.

Shoshana, the Artistic Director will announce the show with a welcome. She will be standing on the front of the stage.

Her voice will be loud enough so that everyone can hear her. Shoshana will introduce the performance, and the actors, and thank the people that helped the show to happen.

I will be in a dark room with big pictures projected in bright light. Georgia, who is the performer in the show, will sit on stage and sing songs and tell a story in between singing songs.

The music and story will mostly be serious and quiet, but sometimes I may want to laugh or cheer for the characters! Sometimes the music will get loud and fast.

The show will last 40 minutes. At the end of the show the actors will bow and I will applaud which is another way of saying: "Great job!" to the actors. I will leave with my family or friends. We will then drive back home.
